

Message from the Editors

As a member of Editorial Board, it is my honor to address you in the first issue of 10th volume of our distinguished Journal IAJIT. IAJIT is the first refereed Journal of College of Computing and Information Society (CCIS), regrouping Arab IT and Computer Science faculties.

Although IAJIT started only few years ago, but it has quickly become a real reference for scientists, researchers, and post-graduate students, in ICT sector from the region and the whole world. It is now referenced in several world-class index databases, including the famous Thomson citation index.

The success of this Journal is essentially due to the high-level technical papers submitted to it, to the seriousness and efficiency of reviewers, and to the great work achieved by the whole management staff. The selection of papers in this issue followed, as usual, severe reviewing procedures. At least, three reviewers have read and commented each paper. If the majority of reviewers have approved the paper content, then authors are informed about the reviewing result.

IAJIT encourages all researchers to submit their results to the Journal in any field of Information Technology, such as natural language processing, video/image processing, grid computing, parallel processing, neural networks, communication modeling, networking, artificial intelligence, and information systems. The Board is also attentive to any remark or comment, in order to raise the Journal quality.

During my relationship with IAJIT, I could notice the important development steps of this Journal since its creation, and I am confident that the future will witness new achievements for the Journal, powered by the fruitful collaboration of all partners (researchers, reviewers, and staff).

I would like also to thank our dear colleague, Dr. Hamed Al-Fawareh, the Editor-in Chief, for giving me the opportunity to write to you, and for the substantial work done for the Journal. Wish you, dear readers, nice and interesting reading.

Dr. Nawar AL-Awa,
Editorial Board Member
